Baby Elephant wants to play

Moves

Elephant – Bridge – Boat – Dolphin

Story

Baby Elephant wants to play but all he does every day is:
Hang out with the old elephants,
Go stomping through the jungle, and
Swim in the sea (run around pretending to swim/lie down on the ground pretending to swim) all by himself
He stomped and stomped until he came to a big Bridge.
He stomped over the Bridge and saw a Boat.
He thought, yes, that Boat can take me to find someone to play with!
He jumped onto the Boat and it sailed off to sea.
The next day, as the sun was rising in the distance he saw Dolphins playing in the sea.
Wow, they looked like a lot of fun!
He jumped off the Boat and swam towards the Dolphins and asked,
“Can I play with you?”
As the Dolphins were so kind and loved to take care of all creatures, they said,
“Of course!”
They swam all day going in circles, jumping out of the water, lying down on the bottom of the ocean.
The Little Elephant played and played and started to feel really tired.
One of the Dolphins shouted,
“Jump on my back and I’ll take you to shore!”
He was sad to leave them but the Dolphins said,
“Don’t worry; we’ll meet you again tomorrow.”
This put a big smile on Little Elephant face.
He was so happy and skipped back to his lair, laid down and fell asleep... zzzz
